Regulatory requirements are moreover to be observed.

This does not apply to employees who retain their usual residential status abroad while setting up and/or dismantling the company's own exhibition stands on behalf of their foreign-based employer.

Work permits are to be applied for in good time with the Arbeitsamt München (Munich Employment Office), Kapuzinerstraße 26–30, 80337 München, Germany or, if concrete plans for the employment of foreign workers have already been made, with the Landesarbeitsamt Südbayern (Southern Bavarian Regional Employment Office), Thalkirchner Str. 54, 80337 München, Germany such that a decision can be made on the application prior to the commencement of the period of employment.

Such offence is punishable by a fine of up to EUR 5,000,00 for the employee and up to EUR 250,000,00 for the employer.

Permits are to be obtained from the relevant authorities for work on Sundays, public holidays and at night.

■ 4.2 Disturbance Sources (inter alia broadcast antennas, radio installations, wifi-router)

The operation of radio installations or high-frequency transmission systems, e.g. wifi-router, bluetooth-transmission systems as well as mobile hotspots of smartphones and tablets, demands the approval of the ICM.

In order to avoid mutual interference disruption, the compatibility of the frequencies in respect of the equipment used in the building and on the grounds must be proofed. The relevant European EMV / EMI guidelines valid at the given time require compliance.

Radio installations must operate with a corresponding frequency spacing in respect of the frequencies / applications already used at the trade fair center.

On request, the ICM will provide a plan with all frequencies used within the premises.

Should the exhibitor fail to comply with his obligations in this respect, the ICM is entitled to terminate the broadcast and / or cut off the supply of electricity to the stand without any formal notice being required.

■ 4.3 Volume limitation

The maximum permitted volume level for the use of transmission systems with loudspeakers is 70 dB. The ICM reserves the right, however, to impose further limitations. The exhibitor is obliged to ensure that the maximum permitted volume level is not exceeded.
